

Corbett's Conundrums

24th October

A car is travelling on a section of motorway.

The car travels three-quarters of the section at an average speed of 46mph.

What is the car's average speed over the remaining section if the car's average speed over the entire section of motorway is 50mph?

